

ABSTRACT

A method for enhancing the efficacy of chemotherapy in the treatment of cancer in animals, particularly humans, is provided wherein isocoumarin derivatives that exhibit unique chemopotentiation properties are employed in a combination treatment with chemotherapy.